

General Disclaimer

www.delitips.com is published by Delitips.com Ltd, a company which is registered in Belgium (hereinafter and further on this website referred to as Delitips.com) and it is also the only official and public website published by it. The use of the website is entirely free of charge. Through using the website, the user expressly declares to be in agreement with the following general conditions.

With the exception of the own personal page www.delitips.com/suffix, with which is implied that of the personalized web presentation of the IBP (Independent Business Partner), which is also published by Delitips.com. The use of this website is also completely free of charge. Through using the website, the user expressly declares to be in agreement with the following General Conditions.

The below-mentioned General Conditions apply to the use of these websites of Delitips.com, as well as in relation to the business possibilities and opportunities from Delitips.com.

General Conditions

Through using these websites, including all the web pages, you acknowledge to be in acceptance of this General Disclaimer and the contextual meaning thereof. During your use of these websites these General Conditions will continue to be applicable.

If you are not satisfied as to the contents of these websites, then your only solution will be to refrain from using same.

The information on these websites has been compiled with all due care. Despite our endeavours, the information as given on these websites may not be necessarily complete, accurate or have been updated. Delitips.com reserves the right to at any moment in time and at own discretion, amend, modify or revise this General Disclaimer and to extend this, to change or to cease its effectivity. The stipulations of the General Disclaimer will be applicable over all the improvements, extensions or changes as made. Each user of the information which is available on these websites, uses this information at his/ her own risk. Delitips.com extends no guarantee whatsoever and will not be held responsible for occurring inaccuracies, incompleteness or unreliabilities and the possible damaging consequences thereof to the user and/ or third parties. Through making use of these websites, the user explicitly distances himself/ herself from any possible recovery in kind and/ or monetary compensation for any direct or indirect damage which may arise from the use of these websites.

Delitips.com can cease the availability, or use and admittance to these websites, such for whatsoever reason and either or not with a notification to the user. Delitips.com cannot be held liable by the user for any direct, indirect or whatsoever damage which may arise and/ or is a consequence of using these websites.

The IBPs of Delitips.com (Independent Business Partners) can have their own personal page at www.delitips.com/suffix, via which they make their own report. Delitips.com expressly absolves itself from any liability in respect of these web pages and/ or the content thereof.

If you submit an idea, proposal or experience to us, then Delitips.com is entitled to use your submission free of charge in any manner whatsoever such deemed by us to be useful, including that of publication to the Internet.

Delitips.com can offer links to websites or resources from third parties. The extending of these links by Delitips.com are not to be considered to reflect our support of this information, goods or services which are reached through this medium. Since Delitips.com has no control over these websites or the resources thereof, it can also not be held liable for the content or trust that you place in these websites or resources thereof.

Delitips.com also bears no responsibility whatsoever for interruptions due to technical and/ or other reasons in the availability of certain information.

All the information on these websites can be consulted freely and is free of charge.

Except where mentioned otherwise, the copying and downloading of the information as extended is permitted subject to the express condition that this occurs for personal use only, without commercial aims and with a clear acknowledgement of the source. Delitips.com also reserves the right to impose restrictions on the copying and/ or downloading of specific information and/ or texts.

The user binds himself/ herself to not change the information and data as obtained via the websites and to not use this information in a manner contrary to law, public order and good morals and decency.

The downloading and/ or copying of information from the website occurs completely at the own risk of the user. Delitips.com can in no manner whatsoever be held liable for any damage to hardware and/ or software of the user as a result of the downloading, the installation, the storage or the use of software or information from our websites. Delitips.com can also not be held liable for whatsoever damage caused to hardware and/ or software of the user such resulting from computer viruses, worms and/ or malware.

The layout and content of these websites is protected by the intellectual property rights of Delitips.com. All texts, drawings, images, photos and suchlike on this website, falls within copyright and may on no account, without the express prior written permission from Delitips.com or its suppliers, be wholly or partially copied, distributed, translated or changed.

This does not apply to the content of the aforementioned web page of the IBPs (www.delitips.com/suffix).

If you are perusing these websites from a location outside of Belgium, then you yourself are responsible for the compliance with local legislation (where applicable). Delitips.com reserves the right to restrict the availability of these websites at any moment in time and at own discretion to either persons, geographical areas and/ or jurisdictions.

These General Conditions are subject to the law of Belgium. The invalidity of a part or a clause of these conditions does not affect the validity of other clauses. In the event of a dispute, only the Courts at Antwerp will be solely competent to handle same.